

MUSLIM WOMEN LEADER AN EDUCATION OF ISLAMIC HISTORY

AZAM ALI

Abstract

The underlying foundations of Islamic Human advancement are profoundly set in the Qur'an, The Sunnah and Qurūn e ūla, which have been viewed as the best time spans by the Courier of Allah (pbuh). The Qur'an has referenced numerous ladies who in spite of the fact that were not immediate political rulers, yet they changed the course of history, and set models for those to come. The notice of the mother of Maryam (as) and of Maryam (as) herself, the mother and sister of Musa (as), the spouse of Pharaoh, the aberrant notice of Hajra (as) and her heritage, the function of the wives of the Courier (pbuh); and a political ruler the Sovereign of Sheba, in this manner honoring them and not considering them substandard compared to their male partners. Legislative issues in Islamic history has consistently been an extremely even minded field and ladies have taken an interest in it in different jobs. Now and again being the rulers like Raziya Sultana and here and there being the ground-breaking, powerful accepted ruler like Sovereign Nūr Jahan. Some were fantastic military commandants like Sovereign Amina of Zaria in the Sub Saharan Africa; others were incredible managers, for example, Begum Shah Jehan of Bhopal.

The significant functions of Muslim ladies rulers throughout the entire existence of Islam are featured in this article, covering the fourteen centuries time frame. The life and work of in any event ten remarkable rulers is talked about in a way, which will set them to act as an illustration for times to come.